ABOUT THE ARTISTS

With individual careers now spanning the country, bassoonists J. Benjamin Smith and Cayla Bellamy first collaborated during graduate work at the University of Georgia in 2010. Ben, a Texas native, is currently serving in the United States Navy as a bassoon instrumentalist. He earned bachelor and master of music degrees in bassoon performance from West Texas A&M, as well as pursued graduate studies at Baylor University and the University of Georgia. He has performed extensively in Texas and Georgia, having held positions with the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra and performed regularly with orchestras and chamber ensembles throughout the southern United States.

Cayla is in her second year on the faculty of the University of Northern Iowa and as contrabassoonist with the local wcsymphony. Recognized for her stylistic versatility as a performer, she not only is a regularly requested concerto soloist and chamber music collaborator, but also is a frequent commissioner of new works for bassoon and has been a core musician in various regional symphonic and opera orchestras. Cayla's passion for education has also resulted in positions with the Georgia public school system, Atlanta-based Emory Youth Symphony Orchestra, Interlochen Center for the Arts, and the New York Summer School of the Arts, where she now serves as Associate Conductor for the School of Orchestral Studies and community engagement coordinator for the chamber music initiative Project 440.

Several years and multiple states after their first meeting, Ben and Cayla reconvened in the Midwest and formed Double or Nothing in December 2014, aspiring to share the unique sound possibilities and varied repertoire of the bassoon duo via both traditional recital and contemporary, engaging performance settings. You can find the duo and their upcoming events on Facebook (Double or Nothing Bassoon Ensemble), and they are excited to continue reaching a variety of audiences with today's program. Enjoy the show!
