About Our Guest Artists

The most well-known chorals and hymns stand as the foundation for one of the most innovative and exciting musical collaborations in contemporary jazz. Renowned German jazz instrumentalists, pianist Markus Burger and saxophonist Jan Von Klewitz, blend modern improvisation with the art of interpreting baroque music while remaining true to its original musical integrity.

The duo has been touring the world extensively in support of their collaboration since launched in 2000, consistently performing to sold-out audiences year after year, from Germany to Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Ukraine, Lithuania, France, Poland, and most recently, the United States.

Burger and Von Klewitz were the winners of the coveted Bach Award from the City of Erfurt for their innovative interpretation of some of the legendary composer's most notable body of work. The album, "Spiritual Standards," rose to No. 20 on the German charts when it was released in 2000.

Spiritual Standards also hold the distinguished honor to have been selected as the 2013 musical ambassadors for the 'Luther Decade,' a 10-year celebration sponsored by the German State of Saxony-Anhalt, that marks the 500th anniversary of the Lutheran Reformation.

Each year, the Luther Decade focuses on a particular theme from the Reformation, from art to music, with 2013 serving to highlight the contributions of Johann Sebastian Bach to the Lutheran Church in Germany and around the world.
