About the Artist

Irene Swanson is a senior at the University of Northern Iowa studying music education. Throughout her time at UNI, Irene has performed with the Wind Ensemble, Northern Iowa Symphony Orchestra, Symphonic Band, UNI Panther Marching Band, Horn Choir, and TetraCor. She has served as a librarian for the Symphonic Band, and she currently works as a peer educator for aural training and sight singing classes. She is active in UNI's chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, an international music fraternity, and this organization has given her many opportunities to share her love of music, service, and selling potatoes.

In the spring, Irene will be student teaching in the Twin Cities, and she plans to teach beginning or middle school band after graduation.

Thank you to everyone who has supported me throughout my time at UNI. I'm so grateful for everyone who has helped me to grow into who I am today, and I'm excited for this next chapter!
