ABOUT OUR GUEST ARTISTS

For over a decade Boston-based contemporary duo Transient Canvas has been thrilling audiences with their “engaging musicality and easy sense of ensemble” (Cleveland Classical) and “superb” performances (Boston Globe). Bass clarinetist Amy Advocat and marimbist Matt Sharrock relish the creative potential of working with living composers, with the San Francisco Chronicle lauding “the versatile imagination they both display and inspire in others.” With a commissioned repertoire of over 90 works, they have released three albums on New Focus Recordings: Right now, in a second, named a top-ten local album of 2020 by The Boston Globe; Wired, “a must-add to any new music lover’s library” according to I Care If You Listen; and Sift, which KLANG New Music called “one of the more refreshing things I’ve heard in recent years.”

Highlights of their 2022-23 season include collaborations with composers Matthew Evan Taylor, Yoon-Ji Lee, and the world premiere of Elliott Miles McKinley’s Pale Blue Dot for bass clarinet, marimba, and string quartet; concerts at the Vienna Summer Music Festival (Austria), Alba Music Festival (Italy), Dancz Center for New Music (Georgia), North Carolina NewMusic Initiative, ICA Low Clarinet Festival (Arizona), and New Music at the Short North Stage (Ohio); residencies at Penn State, Kent State, East Carolina, and Cleveland State Universities, the University of Georgia, the University of North Texas, and the University of Northern Iowa. PROGRAM NOTES in the teeth of was composed for Transient Canvas during their residency with the Frost School of Music’s SCI chapter. The performers operate live electronics, triggering fixed audio samples and live audio processing. Much of this piece was composed during my time in Maine’s Acadia National Park on Mount Desert Island, where I drew inspiration from the stillness and expansiveness of the quiet island.

EPIDERMIS | DAN VANHASSEL

In Epidermis the the bass clarinet and marimba merge into a single machine-like entity playing funky rhythmic patterns made up of percussive sounds, with the electronics forming a noisy protective layer around the live players. At the beginning of the piece the acoustic and electronic sounds are quite closely aligned, but as the piece progresses they begin to move apart. Melodic patterns begin to appear in the bass clarinet and marimba, while the electronics become noisier and more abrasive. This piece was commissioned by Transient Canvas and premiered in November 2017 with funding provided by the Johnstone Fund for New Music.

COMPOSER BIOS

Born in Bangladesh, Teerath Majumder is a composer and producer of electronic music. With a background in North Indian classical and Western art music traditions, he seeks new methods of making music often through the use of immersive sound systems, modular synthesis, wearable sensors and various other means. His work traverses several domains including film, dance, theater, sound art and independent production.

Teerath’s career as a composer began in India where he created works for the new music ensemble Hundredfoot Road and soundtracks for Tamil films. Since then, his creations have been performed and recorded by London Firebird Orchestra, Del Sol string quartet, Hub New Music and Transient Canvas among others. Whenever feasible, he has sought collaboration with artists coming from different backgrounds than his. His work with choreographers, filmmakers, and musicians working in a variety of genres constitute a significant part of his oeuvre.

Investigating how we experience music (and sound, broadly speaking) and how that experience can be enhanced is one of Teerath’s key interests. For instance, he has been exploring how the instrumentation and arrangement of traditional Bengali songs can be reimagined to deliver a novel experience to the listener and emphasize the meaning of the text at the same time. Teerath has also been invested in the idea of involving the audience in the creative process in live performances. Through the use of interactive technology, he wants to create spaces that facilitate meaningful audience participation. He assisted composer and flute-player Nicole Mitchell with her immersive sound installation Mothership Calling (2021) by creating software that triggers and moves sound events in the physical space. It involved partnering with Dolby and integrating Atmos Renderer in the software system.

Teerath is currently working on his PhD in the Integrated Composition, Improvisation and Technology (ICIT) program at University of California, Irvine. He received his BA in Music degree from Middlesex University, London where he was awarded the Richard Turton Composition Award. He worked as a sound designer, product specialist and tester with the UK-based music tech company Roli.

Caroline Louise Miller is a US composer based in Portland, Oregon. Her work broadly explores affect, ecology, labor politics, tactility, and digital materiality, often addressing contemporary issues within dreamlike musical spaces that thread field recordings, shimmering textures, and romantic melodic lines through harsh noise and clattering dissonances. She has most recently received grants, fellowships, and commissions through Alarm Will Sound, SPLICE Ensemble with funding from Chamber Music America, Guerilla Opera, Transient Canvas, and Ensemble Adapter. In 2018 she won the ISB/David Walter Composition Competition for Hydra Nightingale, created with improvisor and bassist Kyle Motl. Other projects include whistle-session hijacker, a collection of acousmatic/instrumental hip-hop crossover tracks. C.L.M.'s music appears across the U.S. and internationally. Caroline is Assistant Professor of Music in Sonic Arts at Portland State University, and holds a Ph.D in Music from UC San Diego. www.carolinelouiseillustr.com
